French Strikers Clash

PARIS (Reuters) — Union leaders and die-hard miners clashed in angry arguments in France's northern coalfields today, and many men who were due to return to work following Thursday's official strike settlement returned to their homes.

Mine authorities said about 72 per cent of workers in the Lens coalfields returned to their jobs. Observers said most of those who returned to work appeared bitter and disappointed at union acceptance of the terms to end the six-week strike by 200,000 miners—a wage increase by instalments, a back-to-work cash advance and a four-week paid vacation annually.

At Maréchal, in the Lens area of eastern France, all miners obeyed the back-to-work call but relief at being back on the job appeared to be mixed with bitterness at the terms.

In the Lens area, shouting and arguments broke out at the pitheads when some miners tried to report for work.

Union leaders were immediately called to arbitrate, but after hot debate, some miners still refused to return to work and nine mines stayed closed in Lens, Liévin, Sallaumines and Maréchal.

There were shouts of "treachery" and "the workers are in charge, not the leaders" when local union heads attempted to persuade the miners to end the walkout.

But in the eastern Lorraine coalfields, all miners appeared to have accepted the settlement.

Meanwhile, President de Gaulle's government was faced with more labor trouble in the state-owned radio and television networks as performers, technicians and administrative staff began a 24-hour strike at midnight to back demands for more pay and improved working conditions.

Killer Winds Hit U.S. East

NEW YORK (AP) — Fires fanned by roaring winds spread havoc Thursday from Maine to Georgia, killing at least three persons. Trees were uprooted and power lines fell in gusts up to 81 miles an hour.

In New York City, a workman was killed by a wind-tossed plank. In a Syracuse, N.Y., suburb a woman died of electric shock as she stepped from her car, which had become entangled in live wires. A man died in Passaic, N.J., when a fire-damaged building collapsed and showered debris on a parked car.

Winds were expected to diminish and temperatures to rise today.

At the Bridgeport, Conn., airport a pilot reported seeing a waterspout in Long Island Sound. An 81 m.p.h. gust was recorded at the airport.

A fire visible for almost 20 miles destroyed a nursery on the outskirts of Geneva, N.Y.

POWER CUT OFF
In Schenectady, N.Y., where gusts reached 65 m.p.h., power was cut off to 2,600 homes during the day.

More than 30 fires were reported in the New York City area. Philadelphia, Pa., had more than 200.

A field and woods fire near Leonardtown, Md., destroyed six buildings including one housing a volunteer fire company. The blaze was one of more than 150 that swept Maryland.

West Virginia had at least 70 woodland fires.

MONTREAL FLOODED

MONTREAL (CP) — Raging spring floods have inundated parts of St. Hyacinthe leaving 200 families homeless and some main streets submerged in three feet of water. The Yamaska River which runs through St. Hyacinthe, 30 miles east of Montreal, was dislodging huge cakes of ice and hampering in flood operations.

Bali Lava Flows At Enormous Rate

JAKARTA, Indonesia (Reuters) — Mollten lava is flowing with "enormous velocity" down the southwest slope of the Bali volcano about 25 miles from the island capital of Denpasar, and Mount Agung is "most likely" to erupt again, the official Indonesian today.

Some 1,500 persons have died and 100,000 have been left homeless in a series of eruptions since mid-February. According to Red-Cross reports,

"Hot" Motorboat Cruises Under U.S.-Cuba Scrutiny

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The hot test motorboat since running days cruised somewhere off Florida today.

U.S. Coast Guard flyers watched for it to try slipping into port. And across the Florida Straits, Fidel Castro's men rocked an eye for a threatened raid on Cuba.

The bantam fighting-ship was the 33-foot cabin cruiser Violin III, packed with 17 anti-Castro actionists and a bustling assortment of arms—but no ammunition, unless it replenished its supply at sea.

The 16 Cubans and one Amer-

THIEF ALMOST BLEW A FUSE

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A holdup man forced department store manager Andrew Donchak to be on the floor in a back room.

When the robber left to rifle the cash register, Donchak quickly pulled all the fuses from the store's fuse box, located in the back room.

The electrically operated cash registers wouldn't open and the bandit departed—fast and empty-handed.

Three Flee Tug Blaze

CAMPBELL RIVER (CP) — David Murphy and two crewmen leaped to the safety of a dock and pushed their burning tug into mid-channel after the boat caught fire here Thursday. The tug burned to the waterline before the flames were extinguished.

BELT UNUSED
COURTENAY (CP) — A seat belt found in his car's glove compartment might have saved the life of Larry Ford if it had been used, a coroner's jury agreed here Thursday. The jury ruled Ford met death accidentally from injuries suffered when his car careened into a ditch near here March 16.

GAS ON FIRE
VANCOUVER (CP) — Machine shop owner Reg Griffiths grabbed the fire extinguisher, aimed it and squirted at a small fire. Then he jumped back as the flames shot up. It was found the fire extinguisher was filled with gasoline—someone had filled it from the wrong container by mistake.

ORDERS STOLEN
COQUITLAM (CP) — Postal money orders with a potential value of $65,000 were taken in a break-in at a sub postoffice in a drug store. Some 700 money blanks were taken but nothing else was touched.

CNR Labelled 'Public Enemy'

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP) — The terrorist organization Front de Liberation Quebecois (Quebec Liberation Front) has labelled the CNR an "enemy of the public" and threatened to take "all necessary means to eliminate it."

CNR freight cars near this community 110 miles north of Quebec city have been splattered with paint, the letters "FLQ" and the slogan "Vive le Quebec libre" in the last two days.

An anonymous caller said that because the CNR has "done nothing to give rights to the Quebec people, we are obliged to take drastic means."

"The CNR has been declared an enemy of the state. We will take all necessary means to eliminate it."

Kremlin Agrees With Direct Link To Washington

'Red Line' As Means To Avert Accidental Outbreak Of War

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union announced today it is ready to accept a direct telecommunications link between Washington and the Kremlin to prevent an accidental outbreak of world war.

Soviet Ambassador Semyon K. Tsarapkin made the announcement in a session of the 17-nation disarmament conference.

The direct link was originally proposed by the United States as a priority measure to relieve world tension and prevent accidental war.

Tsarapkin said the Soviet Union is willing to negotiate such a link immediately, without waiting for agreement on a general disarmament treaty.

U.S. Ambassador Charles C. Stille said the United States "warmly welcomes" Tsarapkin's announcement.

REJECTS TWO PROPOSALS

Tsarapkin rejected two other preliminary disarmament measures suggested by the United States. These called for a permanent exchange of military missions and advanced notification of military manoeuvres.

Both would permit Western espionage in the Soviet Union and would serve only to increase world tension, the Soviet delegate said.

"However, the Soviet Union is ready to accept a direct telephone or teletype line between the two governments," Tsarapkin declared.

He said details should be worked out in separate negotiations by the United States and the Soviet Union. These talks could begin immediately, without waiting for progress or general disarmament of a nuclear test ban treaty.

He said each of the two governments should be left free to determine the exact point where the direct link should terminate in its own capital.

PART OF ORIGINAL PLAN

The so-called "red line" between Washington and the Kremlin was a feature of the original U.S. proposals for a general disarmament treaty.

The United States last year suggested it should be considered separately from the disarmament treaty, bogging down at East-West stalemate.

Tsarapkin said each side should guarantee that material passed over the red line would be forwarded at once to "the responsible government organs."

This presumably meant that the red line could be used to establish direct contact in case of emergency between President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev.

Earlier Tsarapkin passed along an East German proposal for a friendship pact between East and West Germany as an initial step to a non-aggression treaty between the Atlantic alliance and the Communist Warsaw Treaty bloc. This is an old gambit, rejected in the past by West Germany.

UNION COMPROMISE

The revolutionary command which seized power in Syria four weeks ago was reshuffled today and a compromise delegation was selected for Arab unity talks in Cairo with President Nasser (above). The twin movers were designed to freeze for the moment a political crisis that has gripped the country since last week-end over the issue of union with President Nasser's United Arab Republic.

Kelowna Teacher's Body Found

The body of Kelowna junior secondary school teacher Mrs. Edith Taylor was recovered Thursday night, from Nicola Lake, about 30 miles south of Kamloops.

An RCMP spokesman said her body was in about 90 feet of water, near her car, which was found Wednesday night.

Mrs. Taylor was reported missing Monday by her daughter, Mrs. Carol Beaton of Merritt after Kelowna school officials told her Mrs. Taylor had not arrived to work Monday morning.

Mrs. Taylor was returning from a weekend conference on occupational programs held in Kamloops. She was to visit her daughter on the way home.

Mrs. Taylor joined the staff of the Kelowna school in September 1957. For the past two years, she taught grade VII students, although she had taught grade VIII students in previous years.

Junior secondary school principal F. T. Bunce said Mrs. Taylor was "a very cooperative teacher and was well liked."

"She will be missed by her students, as well as by the staff," he said.

Before coming to Kelowna, she was a teacher at Bridge Lake.

WILLISTON HAPPY AT TENDERS FOR PEACE RIVER PROJECT

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Provincial Lands and Forests Minister Williston said Thursday the low tenders for the giant multi-million-dollar Peace River power dam ensure beyond a doubt that Peace power will be available to the Lower Mainland at under four mills per kilowatt hour.

Mr. Williston, expressing agreeable surprise at a bid of some $75,500,000—almost $25,000,000 less than estimated by B.C. Hydro and Power Authority engineers—said "opposition to the project should now disappear."

All estimates used to predict the rate base of Peace power—Premier Bennett had predicted it would be in the vicinity of four mills—were based on the B.C. Hydro estimate of $99,178,000 for the giant dam at Portage Mountain.

Bank's "Voter Intimidation" Target For Douglas Blast

WINNIPEG (CP) — T. C. Douglas, New Democratic Party leader, wound up his national campaign Thursday night with a claim the president of the Royal Bank of Canada has told his employees how to vote.

Mr. Douglas told a capacity crowd of 1,600 in the Playhouse Theatre that President W. Earle McLaughlin urged bank employees to vote for majority government in the April 8 federal election.

The advice was offered in a one-page letter received by all employees Thursday morning, Mr. Douglas said.

"I don't think the people of Canada will appreciate this type of attempted intimidation," Mr. Douglas told the cheering partisan crowd.

The fiery socialist prefaced his accusation with the claim

Argentine Talks Due

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Army commanders and rebel navy leaders were to meet to end Argentina's four-day revolt.

There was no immediate indication whether die-hard naval elements at Puerto Belgrano—the rebels' last stronghold, 350 miles south of Buenos Aires—would agree to the pact. It calls for cutting the navy's 35,000-man force at least by half.

Terms of the conditional agreement were pounded out by loyalist military leaders and Rear Admiral Eldio Vazquez, the rebel fleet commander, at a two-hour post-midnight session in Buenos Aires. In a terse communiqué they said agreement in principle had been reached on requirements to halt the fighting and return the armed forces to normal.

Ontario Man Held In Killing

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Lloyd McFadden, 27, of London was charged with capital murder early today in the death of William Doxtator, 52, an Indian, whose beaten and burned body was found wrapped in a blanket in a ditch Thursday.

Police seized a taxi, stolen Wednesday, believed to have been used to take Doxtator—or his body—to the lonely lane in Westminster Township a mile southwest of here.

the "fat cats" and the people of special privilege are "swinging" behind Mr. Pearson and the Liberal party.

In Montreal, Mr. McLaughlin said Mr. Douglas had failed to read "the most important sentence in the letter."

The sentence was: "I would certainly not presume to suggest how anyone should vote."

Mr. McLaughlin added the letter also urged employees to get out and vote.

DIDN'T READ LETTER

Mr. Douglas did not actually read the letter and had no copy with him. He told reporters after the rally the party's national headquarters in Ottawa had a copy and the information had been passed along to him by telephone.

Election Battle In BC Follows On Big "Barrages"

The election battle continues at all-party rallies, coffee parties and meetings in the wake of the heavy campaign barrages laid down during the last two weeks at the Vancouver Forum.

With three days to go to election day, local candidates intensified the fight to capitalize on the Forum appearances by Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, Liberal Leader Lester Pearson and New Democratic Leader T. C. Douglas.

Arthur Laing, Liberal candidate in Vancouver South and former provincial party leader, warned voters against supporting "selfish splinter groups catering to personal interests rather than the national good."

He said a Canada "at war with itself can contribute nothing to the outside world except the sad spectacle of a people so preoccupied with private gain that they are unable to see the common good."

External Affairs Minister Green, speaking in Victoria, said Canada has no commitments of any kind to accept nuclear warheads for its Bomarc missiles.

He said one of the tragedies of the campaign was Liberal Leader Pearson's "overnight" change of heart about nuclear warheads.

A few mealy warheads that are not even a drop in the bucket compared to the nuclear power of the United States," he said, "but what would it do to our case in the United Nations. It would just destroy the work we have been doing for the past four years."

Phil Stannard, Progressive Conservative candidate in Burnaby-Richmond, said the Conservative party is the only party today which guarantees freedom for the individual and preservation of his property.

He said the NDP under Mr. Douglas would conduct a raid on savings accounts in Canadian banks—and upon the assets of Canadian insurance companies—to pay for the party's wild socialist experiments.

—ECONOMIC CHAOS—

George Matthews, Social Credit candidate in Vancouver Burrard, said the Conservatives were forced to re-finance the massive debt left by the past Liberal administrators.

Unfortunately, they used the wrong method and threw the country into economic chaos.

The Conservative Vancouver-Burrard candidate, John Taylor, said "halfway through this election campaign, the Liberals dared to propose a new flag for Canada."

"But when they found Canadians loved their red ensign they dropped the plank from their election platform."

Tom Kent, Liberal candidate in Burnaby-Coquitlam, declared the riding "has too long played second fiddle to the city of Vancouver in government thinking."

He said "too often the flow of federal capital stops east of the Rockies... too often what attention is given to British Columbia is given to Vancouver."

—DIVORCE LAWS "EVIL"—

Eric Charman, Conservative candidate in Victoria, said a director of Pacific coast sports fishing should be appointed to encourage harmonious relationships between sports and commercial fishermen.

David Swan, independent Liberal candidate in Vancouver Burrard called Canada's divorce laws "evil and outdated."

He said the present laws compelling people to commit or admit adultery in order to obtain a divorce serve to weaken the entire moral fabric of Canadian society.

—PLAN GIANT TELESCOPE—

LEYDEN, The Netherlands (Reuters)—Five European nations plan to build the largest optical telescope in the southern hemisphere, either in South Africa or Chile. Nations involved in the project are Holland, Belgium, West Germany, France and Sweden. The telescope would cost an estimated $8,000,000 and be completed by 1970.

On financial matters, Mr. Thompson said his party does not want to "run the banks," any more than it wants to take over the manufacture of automobiles.

But his party will make capital available at nominal interest—"just a service charge"—for such things as hospital and school construction. During the last five years, he said, public and private debt in Canada has mounted by $20,000,000,000 and if all the money available in Canada today were called in it would fall $5,000,000,000 short of meeting the debt.

Thompson Hits 100th Speech In Today's Tour Of Ontario

OTTAWA (CP)—Social Credit Leader Thompson goes on a five-community tour of Ontario today, passing the century mark in the number of speeches he has made when he brings his national campaign to a close tonight.

Mr. Thompson planned to fly to Sudbury for a noon meeting and then to Barrie, Ont., for a helicopter tour of three other towns before a Social Credit evening rally in Barrie. He will also send a verbal message to the closing rally of his party in Montreal before going to Toronto to return to his home in Red Deer, Alta.

Thursday night in Ottawa, with a planned excursion to Quebec City cancelled by bad flying weather, Mr. Thompson told a gathering of 200 party workers he is confident of big gains in Quebec and Alberta, and sufficient wins in other parts of the country to give him minority control of the new House of Commons.

Earlier Thursday, he flew in from Calgary and drove to Hawkesbury and Alexandria in eastern Ontario's Glenarry-Prentiss riding, which he says his party will win. Roland Caouette is the candidate.

In both of his major addresses he concentrated on the theme that Canada needs a government that will give leadership without trying to tear down its political opponents.

—MAKES 97th SPEECH—

He told his evening meeting in Woodroffe High School it was his 97th speech of the campaign, and that he had travelled 26,000 miles.

The Conservative and Liberal parties were so concerned with defeating each other, he said, that the Social Credit party "is going to go in, right through them." The older parties might be good in opposition, but they are "no good in government," and "our answer is to put them both in opposition."

On financial matters, Mr. Thompson said his party does not want to "run the banks," any more than it wants to take over the manufacture of automobiles.

But his party will make capital available at nominal interest—"just a service charge"—for such things as hospital and school construction. During the last five years, he said, public and private debt in Canada has mounted by $20,000,000,000 and if all the money available in Canada today were called in it would fall $5,000,000,000 short of meeting the debt.

—LIVING COSTS REMAIN STATIC—

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian living costs remained unchanged during February, with the consumer price index holding at 132.1 on March 1, the record high reached a month earlier.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics said today that the index—a prices yardstick based on 1949 levels—held steady at the Feb. 1 level as decreased food prices offset increases in the cost of housing and clothing.

The March 1 index was 1.9 per cent above the March, 1962, index of 129.7.

Multi-Rapists To Be Shot

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Two Moscow men—one the son of a prominent Soviet doctor—have been sentenced to be shot for raping 36 girls, the newspaper Moskovskaya Pravda reports.

It says the girls, eleven of them under 16, were made drunk, blackmailed or beaten up to make them submit.

The rapes took place, in the apartments of the two men, Vladimir Novikov, 28, and Yuri Soplinyak, 24.

The newspaper lays the blame for the transformation of the two men "from men into monkeys" on their well-to-do parents' indulgence of their laziness and desire to "paint the town red."

French Pacific Test Said Set

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — The Australian Broadcasting Commission said today that about 150 technicians were expected in Tahiti this month to begin preparing a French nuclear test site in the Gambier Archipelago of French Polynesia.

(In Paris, French official sources declined comment on the report.)

The radio said the Tahiti capital of Papeete would be residential headquarters while the technicians built a series of airstrips in the archipelago.

According to earlier Paris reports, the test site is expected to be Mangareva Island, about 300 miles northeast of New Zealand.

—LIVING COSTS REMAIN STATIC—

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian living costs remained unchanged during February, with the consumer price index holding at 132.1 on March 1, the record high reached a month earlier.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics said today that the index—a prices yardstick based on 1949 levels—held steady at the Feb. 1 level as decreased food prices offset increases in the cost of housing and clothing.

The March 1 index was 1.9 per cent above the March, 1962, index of 129.7.

—WORLD BRIEFS—

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A Viet Cong mine exploded under a train in a jungle area 50 miles northeast of Saigon today, killing five Vietnamese civil guardsmen and injuring 20 others, an American military spokesman reported.

—EXPECTS RAIL STRIKE—

LONDON (AP)—Union chief Sydney Green, representing Britain's 474,000 railroad workers, Thursday looked over a modernization program which would cut out 70,000 jobs and said: "As things stand now, it looks as if there will be a strike." Union leaders arranged to meet Monday to set a strike date.

—WILL MARRY FAROUK?—

ROME (Reuters)—Beautiful Italian singer Irma Capece Minutolo was reported today to have said she will marry former King Farouk of Egypt next month.

Career Day Planned Here By CARS

At its Tuesday night meeting in the Health Centre, the Kelowna branch of the Canadian Rheumatism and Arthritis Society made plans for a career day.

The special day is to be part of the Health Education Week, from May 6 to May 11. Provincial public relations officer Miss Rae Bourgeois will address interested groups in Kelowna and show a film entitled, "Just Around the Corner during the special week."

The society planned to conduct a career day with hydrotherapy treatment in the heated swimming pool at the house of Mrs. D. A. Hurdle.

Kelowna physiotherapist Miss J. Critchley reported she had given 178 treatments to 37 patients during March. She said four of these patients had been well enough to be discharged and six of those treated were new cases of rheumatoid cases.

President of the Kelowna CARS branch, H. C. Langton, told the group of a fund being raised for the construction of a Bluebird House in Vancouver, a home for arthritic patients being treated in Vancouver.

Industry Influx Said Valley Need

PENTICTON — Okanagan Boundary Liberal candidate W. A. Gilmour told a special meeting here Tuesday night that a Liberal government would put forward a "bold, imaginative plan" to stimulate industry and promote development of new industry in Canada.

"If the Okanagan is to get its share of new industry, the member of parliament for this riding must really believe new industry is possible for this area and be prepared to work hard to see that we get our share," Mr. Gilmour said.

He said light manufacturing industry, particularly could be attracted to the Okanagan area, but he said "hard work by the member of parliament will be necessary to get it here."

Starling Bounty Will Continue

The increase to ten cents in the bounty paid by the B.C. Fruit Growers' Association for starlings last year, will be in effect again this season.

In 1962, the bounty was paid for 4,000 dead birds taken into receiving stations, although weather conditions reduced the size of flocks in the Okanagan.

Growers this year are expecting a large influx and are anxious to destroy as many as possible because they can do great damage to fruit trees.

Condition 'Good' On Major Roads

The B.C. Department of Highways in Kelowna reported today all major roads remain in good condition.

Rogers Pass—lower levels bare, slippery sections on upper levels sandbed.

Fraser Canyon—road is good.

Construction areas slightly rough. Road closure, Friday 11:30 p.m. to 7:30 a.m. No closure Saturday or Sunday.

REYNOLDS CUP WINNERS DECLARED

Kevin Rathbone, 17, and David James of West Sunnyside, are shown here with the Reynolds Cup which they won in class 130 points out of 150 in the Kelowna Music Festival. Activities were adjudged by... the theatre. Also on Saturday night a program will be the presentation of the Netta Thompson Trophy for aggregate solo singing under 15.

Camp McKinney Subject of Talk

Victor Wilson, president of the Penticton branch of the Okanagan Historical Society, presented an illustrated talk on the ghost town of the once flourishing gold-mining community of Camp McKinney to the Kelowna branch of the society at its annual meeting Wednesday night.

Mr. Wilson told the group the first mineral claim at a site which later became known as the Cariboo Mine.

Located almost half way between Penticton and Greenwood, Camp McKinney was first connected by road to Rock Creek and Fairview in 1893 and 1894, Mr. Wilson said.

He said the Cariboo mine, with its 20-stamp mill, boilers and other machinery, had once employed between 40 and 50 men.

He said the mine reached its production peak in 1903 but died out in the same year as minerals became more difficult to locate. Other rich mines had been staked in the Boundary country, Mr. Wilson said, and some of the equipment from McKinney Camp was transported to them.

By this time more than $1,000,000 worth of free gold had been

C of C Lauds Bench Plan

A proposed plan for the location of benches on streets in Kelowna drawn up by city engineer Ted Lawrence, was found to be "more than adequate" by the chamber of commerce at its Tuesday meeting.

In a statement regarding the plan, the chamber said it was pleased to find the plan was "more than adequate" for the needs of the city.

Catholic PTA Buys Supplies

Purchase of a set of counting rods for use in the revised mathematics course in grade 1 was approved by the Catholic PTA at a meeting recently.

J. J. Spierling chaired the meeting, held in St. Joseph's Hall.

The auxiliary promised consideration for a request for 50 desks needed in the Catholic school.

George Vetter was appointed chairman of a committee to establish a new executive for the next school term.

Tourist Bureau Under Study

A committee is to be struck among members of the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce, the tourist bureau and city council, to study problems being faced in the operation of the tourist bureau.

The committee was struck after chamber president T. C. McLaughlin said the chamber had absolutely no control over monies granted to the tourist bureau.

Tourist bureau chairman J. A. Ames said although his bureau received a budget annually, much of the money allocated was already earmarked before it reached the bureau.

The committee study is only "an attempt to make things more workable and flexible," between the parent chamber of commerce and the tourist bureau, Mr. McLaughlin said.

Rogers Pass Traffic Increases

Traffic over the Rogers Pass-Glacier National Park continues to show a steady increase, park superintendent B. H. Styles said.

During the week ending March 30 a total of 6,597 vehicles, carrying 8,948 passengers, used the route; compared to 3,580 vehicles and 8,092 passengers the previous week.

This is an increase of 11 vehicles and 836 passengers.

Motorists are advised to exercise caution when driving through the snow sheds. "During spring thaws some trouble is being encountered with icing within the sheds, and efforts are being made to control the condition," said Mr. Styles.

Scattered Showers Expected In Valley

Scattered showers and partially sunny periods should exist over the Kelowna area tonight and Saturday.

The weather office in Vancouver reports a storm moving on to the Washington coast will produce a rainy day in southwestern B.C. today followed by scattered showers tonight and Saturday.

High and low temperatures recorded in Kelowna Thursday were 57 and 28 with 91 inches of rain. Temperatures recorded on same date last year were 60 and 30.

AWARD PRESENTED

In the recent report of presentation of service awards to long-time employees of the Kelowna Growers Exchange, the name of Leslie Matthews was inadvertently left out of the list. Mr. Matthews, who has been in the employ of the Exchange for 42 years, was unable to attend the 50th anniversary banquet, but was presented with his award later.

Heckling Loud, Often Long At City Four Party Forum

Party Unification Said Important For Confidence In Canada—Gilmour

Liberal candidate W. A. Gilmour told the four party forum and one half cents," he said Thursday night that party unification must be preserved in order to build confidence in Canada.

Mr. Gilmour quoted key conservative cabinet minister as resigning "because they lacked the confidence in their own leaders."

"There is no question of the conservative party not being able to reach a settlement on Canada's defence policy," he said.

After the forum, the government of the Conservatives said they would not support the proposed changes on all fronts and only weeks ago they introduced a Bill to drop these changes.

"The Conservatives and Liberals are doing and they have appeared and said what we did was what the country needed."

"Our platform," he said, "has been directed towards the needs of Canada and its people. We must have economic planning."

"We put money into the Canadian economy and to provide jobs for the unemployed," he said.

Mr. Pugh listed the national housing scheme, pensions, incentives to industries and winter works programs as examples of P.C.'s contribution to the economy of the country.

Mr. Pugh quoted NDP leader Thomas Douglas as saying "think goodness the government is coming around to adopting a planning need. We need economic planning in Canada."

"By 1954," he said, "there was a credit balance of trade with the U.S. and jobs began to come back."

"As the P.C. candidate," he said, "I am proposing that we set up a national economic development board with representation from all branches of labor and industry to advise the government in controlling economic planning."

Tories "Doing," While Others Talk Claims PC Candidate Pugh Here

Progressive Conservative candidate David Pugh told the meeting that while opposition parties were talking, "the Tories were doing."

"The opposition parties have known all along what work we are doing and they have appeared and said what we did was what the country needed."

"Our platform," he said, "has been directed towards the needs of Canada and its people. We must have economic planning."

"We put money into the Canadian economy and to provide jobs for the unemployed," he said.

Mr. Pugh listed the national housing scheme, pensions, incentives to industries and winter works programs as examples of P.C.'s contribution to the economy of the country.

Strong Conventional Weapons Said Needed By NDP Candidate

The New Democratic Party believes in "strong, modern, up-to-date conventional weapons in Canada," NDP candidate John Young told the meeting, but it has a "democratic, clean-cut and unyielding stand against nuclear weapons."

Mr. Young said the Canadian government should, instead of acquiring nuclear weapons, "attempt to lead those nations in the world still against nuclear weapons."

RESTORE SANITY
An NDP government would "proclaim for all the world to hear that we are trying to restore some sanity to international relations," he said.

Mr. Young said his party would seek a new social order for this country and new ways to solve social problems, through policy of universal brotherhood and co-operation among men.

He said the NDP would attempt to set Canada "along the real, constructive road of peace."

Present Municipal Financing "Prohibitive" Says Socred Shaw

Last on the speaking order was Social Credit candidate P. D. Shaw, who said the present system of financing municipal development was "killing municipalities and killing the taxpayer."

He proposed the establishment of a municipal development bank, which, he said, could cut many of the "prohibitive" costs for financing municipal development. Such a bank, he said, would operate through Canada's national bank, the Royal Bank of Canada.

Mr. Shaw said the same principle could guide financing of similar developments on the federal and provincial levels.

In this way, he said, the field of commercial capital would be open for developing private industry.

"Then, and only then, will you solve the unemployment problem in this country," he said.

"Unless we take a second look at our financial policy," Mr. Shaw said.

Six Cases Heard By Magistrate

Six cases were presented in magistrate's court in Kelowna Wednesday.

Andrew Clarke, Glenora, B.C., was fined $20 and costs for speeding and Edward Lawrence of 1605 Richmond pleaded guilty to speeding, drawing a fine of $50 and costs.

PRUNING TIME IN OKANAGAN?

During Thursday night's all-party forum, a man from the audience asked Okanagan-Boundary Progressive Conservative candidate David Pugh if the tax on his fare was a result of his pruning Liberal candidate William Gilmour's orchard.

Said Mr. Pugh: "Well, I've been doing a lot of pruning, but not an Gilmour's orchard."

Jaycee Sponsored Meeting Attended By 350 At Aquatic

Heckling was loud and some times long at Thursday night's Jaycee-sponsored meeting at the Aquatic Centre. Mr. Shaw rose to speak, and heckler called out "He'd better get out of here."

Present at the four-way meet were Okanagan-Boundary candidates William Gilmour, Progressive Conservative P. D. Shaw, Social Credit, and John Young of the New Democratic Party.

Only a handful of the more than 350 people in the audience were responsible for the heckling.

During Liberal candidate W. A. Gilmour's address, Mr. Gilmour referred to hecklers of the New Democratic Party.

He was interrupted by cries of "let's keep it clean, Bill, let's keep it clean."

"Yes, I think I am keeping it clean," he said.

After heckling persisted, Mr. Gilmour said:

TRADITION
"I realize it might be in the tradition of Liberal candidates to be heckled, but I would appreciate the opportunity to speak uninterrupted for this brief period of 15 minutes."

When Mr. Gilmour was heckled during the "good people" in the Liberal Party, the heckler should accept a defensive posture. "Party policy is what clear weapon for its own protection."

What is your party position on Red China and trade with communist countries?

Mr. Young replied: "We would welcome trade with any country and we would recognize the right of a free people to trade with whom they wish. It would be foolish to turn a blind eye to the fact that 800,000,000 people."

Mr. Gilmour replied: "The Liberal government will endorse the contribution of non-strategic articles with many countries. The more trade with other countries, the more we will prosper. When the United Nations recognizes China then the Liberal government will recognize them."

UNWISE
Mr. Shaw replied: "It would be unwise and it could be dangerous to base Canada's economy on trade with China. At their own choosing they could discontinue trading and collapse our economy. We should only develop trade patterns with friendly countries."

Mr. Pugh replied: "Canada is not dependent on her sales of wheat to China. We must trade everywhere. Communist China has put too many strings on her recognition."

PENSIONS
What is your party stand on a national pension scheme in Canada?

Mr. Pugh said: "We are prepared to bring in a portable pension plan. We have spent two years in discussing a similar plan in use in the U.S. The plan would be on a contributory basis, similar to a regular insurance scheme."

Mr. Shaw said: "We will implement a portable pension plan in Canada. Our senior citizens are entitled to receive sufficient funds to meet their needs."

Mr. Gilmour said: "The Liberals pledge to institute immediately a portable pension plan on a contributory basis, that will be available to everyone. The contributions by wage earners will be less than many private plans now in service. We propose to raise the monthly benefits from $65 to $75."

IMMEDIATE
NDP candidate John Young said his party, if elected, would institute such a plan "immediately for all the people of Canada."

Medical care, through a government plan to which Canadians would pay on a basis of their ability to pay, is "a right of all Canadians," he said.

Liberal William Gilmour said presented "within the term of four years of the Liberals' tenure of office." He said the implementation of a national medical care plan "will depend a lot on us, as well as on government."

Social Credit P. D. Shaw said the medical care problem at present "relates to only 40 per cent of the people," because 60 per cent were already on contributory medical care. Implementation of Socred financial policies would cut the figure to 20 per cent, he said. Then a Social Credit government would endeavor to take care "of the people, unable to help themselves."

Institution Of National Medicare, Columbia River Project Clarified

The candidates were also asked to comment on Columbia River power development and its effect on the Okanagan.

Mr. Young said his party was "opposed to blanket export of Canadian power to the United States." He said if the occasion arose that power exported to the U.S. were needed for developments in Canada, the U.S. power couldn't be "shut off."

Mr. Gilmour said he believed the Columbia River Treaty, signed several years ago, required renegotiation. However, a Liberal government would start "very quickly" on construction of dams not affected by renegotiation. He said power from the Columbia would be of great aid to establishment of industry in the Okanagan.

Mr. Shaw said the treaty is a "good treaty" as it now stands and urged speedy construction of storage and power dams on the river. He said the Social Credit B.C. government had already spent $7,000,000 on preliminary development of the river. "It's not the export of power," he said, "it's the export of water which you can't stop anyway."

Mr. Pugh said the Progressive Conservative government had established, with the treaty, Canada's downstream benefits. He said the treaty is "original Columbia River development."

Mr. Gilmour said the treaty is a "good treaty" as it now stands and urged speedy construction of storage and power dams on the river. He said the Social Credit B.C. government had already spent $7,000,000 on preliminary development of the river. "It's not the export of power," he said, "it's the export of water which you can't stop anyway."

Former Resident Dies In White Rock

Word has been received in Kelowna of the death of 12-year-old Brian Hunt of White Rock, only son of former Kelowna residents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hunt.

The youngster was knocked from his bicycle by a taxi as he was delivering newspapers. He died in hospital four hours after the mishap.

Mr. Hunt was a student in the Kelowna area, first in Glenora and later in Kelowna. His wife, Mrs. Hunt, died several years ago. Funeral services for the boy were held Wednesday in White Rock.

Miss Lethbridge Dies At Prince George

A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hume A. Lethbridge, former Kelowna residents, Miss Helena Lethbridge, died in Prince George, B.C., on Wednesday. She was a graduate of the University of British Columbia. Miss Lethbridge was working as a teacher at the time of her death.

MUSICALLY SPEAKING

With BETHEL STEELE

Thursday morning, for class 9, junior high girls' choir, grades 7, 8, 9, Mr. Redshaw took a very great deal of time to adjudicate the choir's participating.

As he said before, he had to be very critical but it was his duty to be so and he must also be helpful.

He said: "If I could not get more than this out of my singing I would be bored to death."

All these songs were lacking in the "singing version" of our language. They were sung as the children speak and then not always correct in this respect.

The meaning of the poems must be inherent in the singing, and the music must be colored by that meaning. Mr. Redshaw stressed the importance of phrasing and the musical line. There was trouble with pitch so he again asked the young people to "smile, smile, smile and breathe deeply."

We were given a priceless lesson in the use of vowels and how to practice them in lingo made up of several disconnected words with the same vowel. He again stressed the proper use of "r," that it must never sound after a vowel.

Thursday evening we were treated to a visit from the dancers of the Kamloops Indian Residential School. Adjudicator, Miss Mara McIlwain, said that this was the first time she had had the opportunity of seeing these wonderful dancers and that they had given her the greatest pleasure possible.

Miss McIlwain felt these groups possess a serenity lacking in most youth today. There is charm of movement and a wonderful smile. The work is simple but its simplicity is its beauty. The group which did the Spanish dance received a high mark of 85.

In class 516, character dancing, solo, under 18, Joanne Reekie of Penticton, won with a mark of 88 for her interpretation of "The Immigrant." Miss McIlwain said this was a very moving performance; that the story of leaving the old country for the new was clearly delineated in such a way that we could feel every emotion.

In class 24, mixed choir, sacred or secular, St. David's Presbyterian Church, Kelowna, conducted by Douglas Giesler, won high marks and much praise for performing the act piece "In Praise of Neptune" by Edward German and own choice, Mendelssohn's "He that shall endure to the end."

Mr. Redshaw expressed admiration for the confidence and discipline of this choir. Every sound was here assembled into a good choral group but "... you must not sing on the 'ing' in singing." This was not done, ever.

Single Election Issue Is Stable Government

The other day a subscriber commented that our editorial policies on this election appear to be confused. We readily admit this and think it is quite natural that this newspaper is among that very large percentage of the electorate which has been confused by the gyrations of the political leaders and remains confused with the election only hours away.

It is unfortunately true that Canadians have much to vote against and little to vote for. This is a sad commentary on our political leaders and the parties they lead. In this, the probably most serious election this country has experienced in decades, the campaign has produced much of a negative nature and little of a positive nature for which Canadians may vote.

Many, many Canadians will not cast a vote which will in any way support Mr. Caouette and his Social Crediters. Many, many Canadians will not cast a vote in support of socialism as advocated by Mr. Douglas and the NDP. Many Canadians are equally reluctant to vote for Mr. Pearson and an equal number are equally reluctant to vote for Mr. Diefenbaker, the peer of the medicine man circuit.

How, then, are these confused Canadians to resolve their problem, how will they vote?

As the election approaches its final hours it is becoming increasingly evident that the single clear and dominant issue is whether or not Canada is to have a stable government; whether one party is to be given sufficient support in the House of Commons that it can carry through its policies.

The state of affairs in Canada is a far from happy one. There are many important issues which we must solve if this country is to prosper and remain in control of its own affairs. Forgetting the serious family squabbles between provinces and races, there are many national problems to which we must give our serious attention. To select but a few, there is the foreign control of our industry and of organized labor in this country; the chronic deficit in our balance of international payments; the decline of Canadians' flair for independence and self-help; our failure to do our share in the world trend towards international co-operation; the unfortunate condition of political expedience rather than commonsense dictating our national policies and priorities; major problems; there are but a few of the reasons why this country needs a stable government.

Any honest voter must admit that if Canada is to have a stable government, he has not four choices but only two. No honest voter can believe that either of the splinter parties, the NDP or the SC, has any chance whatsoever of obtaining a majority in the House to enable it to form a government. This, in our opinion, immediately eliminates voting for either of these parties.

Of course the ardent supporters of Messrs. Douglas and Caouette-Thompson claim that a minority government does not mean a weak government, but this is a specious argument.

We have just had one experience, and a sad one, of a minority government, and how can a government that is not master in its own house be anything but weak and ineffective?

Surely, surely, we want no more of any working agreement between the Conservatives and the Secreds; we must have learned our lesson. And, equally certain, we want no part of any alliance such as one between the Liberals and the NDP. The most unwholly alliance imaginable would be one between Social Credit and the NDP. Neither does it seem likely that the Liberals and the Conservatives could work together amicably for very long.

And yet the main point at issue is a stable government.

Only two parties have the remotest chance of obtaining a majority in the House to provide this urgently needed stable government: the Liberals or the Conservatives.

It is true that many people no longer want to "Follow John". Many strong Conservatives have become disillusioned. They are prone to blame the ill of the party and of the country on the man himself. It may be true that Mr. Diefenbaker has not been an ideal leader, that he could not make up his mind, that he had no policy and that he has been deserted by many of his closest supporters and his cabinet ministers. But, on the other hand, it is equally true that he has been waging a magnificent one-man battle and that, should his party emerge the victor, it will be because of him alone. Also, it is true that disillusionment with the leader does not mean the basic party has changed. The Conservative party has played an admirable and effective role in Canadian history and, it will in the future. What we are trying to point out is that dislike of the Diefenbaker histrionics is neither a good or a sufficient reason for either voting for a splinter party or not voting at all.

And there are those who are reluctant to vote for a Liberal candidate because they "don't like Pearson on TV." What a reason to condemn a man! What a reason to condemn a party!

It is unfortunately true that Mr. Pearson is not impressive on T.V. His voice is not appealing and he has the annoying habit of tilting his head sideways, birdlike. It has been suggested that his TV image suggests a trace of effeminacy, that he is not a fighter. His performance Monday night in Vancouver certainly gave the lie to this impression.

Mr. Pearson during this campaign has emerged as the leader closest to statesmanship. Of all the leaders he has tried to discuss the important issues and to do so in a calm and rational manner.

An interesting sidelight of the campaign is that all three other parties trained their guns on Pearson. Since the dissolution of Parliament he has been subjected to continuous attacks and these attacks have been stepped up during these final two weeks. This can mean only one thing: He is the man to beat. The Conservatives see him as their sole antagonist in the fight for a House majority while the splinter parties want him cut down so there will be a minority government.

As with Mr. Diefenbaker, the fact that one does not "like him on TV" is no valid argument for not supporting a Liberal candidate. The fact that one does not like his TV image does not mean that Mr. Pearson would not prove to be a good administrator and a good prime minister. Consider the late Mackenzie King who was not a good speaker and who certainly had no great appeal for the public, yet he proved to be Canada's greatest prime minister. Then, too, one can't ignore the fact that Mr. Pearson has gathered around him a group containing many outstanding candidates, from which could be drawn a strong cabinet.

About this election, this newspaper has one strong conviction: that the important thing is to elect a strong government. This can only mean either the Liberals or the Conservatives.

In this election, we honestly feel that a vote for one of the splinter parties — or the refusal to vote — is to act against the best interests of the country. Many, as is their right, will disagree with us, but despite all argument we can see no valid reason at this time for confounding the confusion by supporting either of the splinter groups.

Royal Tour of Antipodes May Be Last of Its Kind

LONDON (CP)—The Queen's visit to New Zealand and Australia brought under microscopic scrutiny the whole concept of royal tours.

You can take various interpretations from the flood of analyses that accompanied and followed the two-month Antipodes trip, but a few general points of agreement among observers seem to emerge:

1. It may have been the last of the so-called marathon tours in which the royal personage traditionally is called upon to show the stamina of a prizefighter.
2. The Queen's popularity is undiminished but the Australian phase of her mission, particularly, could be described at best as only a qualified success for various reasons, including politics, television and weather.
3. Royal visits should be limited in geographic scope, with the Queen perhaps opening Parliament, as she did in Canada in 1957—not touring cross-country.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Clean Fruit Before Biting

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: It's almost impossible these days to buy any vegetable or fruit that has not been sprayed with a chemical bug killer.

Don't you feel that continued use of insecticides and pesticides will harm our food supply and endanger our health? I have heard that a lot of people are dying from this kind of thing already.—Mrs. R.

No, I don't think they will "harm our food supply and endanger our health." Quite the opposite.

Nor is there any basis for wild stories that "people are dying from this kind of thing already."

Naturally these chemicals must be used properly, and we should wash the produce before we eat it. (Careful distributors are conscientious about washing before the products ever reach the grocery stores.) Naturally people using these chemicals for farms, gardens and orchards must handle them with due caution.

Believe me, the problem hasn't been overlooked. It has been studied very carefully.

I have never seen or heard of a single death from proper use of any agricultural product.

Carelessness is another matter. People are careless and just as they are constantly being poisoned by misuse of cleaning compounds, household chemicals, and even aspirin.

Last year, 80 deaths were caused by insecticides and pesticides IMPROPERLY used.

In the same time 150 were killed by improper use of ordinary aspirin.

Federal and other health authorities test all such materials and go to great pains to see that people are informed of the right way to handle them.

These chemicals simply are not a danger to our health.

And our food supply? It is vastly more abundant because we can control insects and pests. For the simplest sort of example, some people have an apple tree in the back yard, and wonder why the fruit is wormy or stunted. An orchardman would tell them why fast enough.

"When did you spray it last?"

Since in different localities, food may come from many sources, the neighbor's back-door garden, or from a huckster, just keep the one safety rule in mind: Wash everything. Then stop worrying.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am having a terrible time with detergent burns on my hands. I have tried many soaps, but with no success.—M.M.

You evidently are one of the people who are overly sensitive and your skin erupts. Different brands may be less annoying. If not, try ordinary soap. Or, perhaps the soundest answer in your case is to wear gloves whenever using detergents.

Some stores have them with a cotton lining. Or get a loose pair of rubber gloves and wear plain cotton gloves underneath so that your hands won't sweat and the rubber won't irritate.

Note to G.P.: I question whether even the exertion of trying to push a tractor would cause a "heart condition."

Either the trouble developed otherwise, or the real damage is a muscular strain of some sort. Exact diagnosis will guide you to the proper steps to take.

No Nuclear Bite For NATO Seven

WASHINGTON (CP)—Canada is one of seven North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries that have not made arrangements to provide some of their forces with nuclear warheads under U.S. custody-and-control regulations. The others are: Norway, Denmark, Iceland, Luxembourg, Belgium and Portugal.

Seven NATO countries have made such arrangements with the U.S. in one form or another. They are: Britain, West Germany, France, Italy, Turkey, Greece and The Netherlands.

Norway and Denmark are opposed to the location of nuclear weapons and foreign troops on their territories in peacetime. Iceland has no military force. Luxembourg has a population of only about 200,000. Portugal has provided the U.S. with military bases in the Azores Islands but has shown no inclination to acquire access to nuclear weapons. Belgium has taken the first step toward obtaining U.S. warheads and the custody-and-control negotiations are expected to take place shortly.

FRANCE BARS WARHEADS

Of these countries that completed arrangements to acquire nuclear warheads under U.S. control, the only one that specifically bars American warheads from its soil is France. France has signed an agreement to allow its troops in West Germany to draw on American-controlled nuclear storage dumps located there for NATO defense operations.

Under custody-and-control arrangements, U.S. military men stand guard over the warheads, which cannot be used without the consent of the U.S. president. In some cases the U.S. also retains the key to firing the nuclear weapons. In other cases, such as in Britain, two keys are required, one held by a British officer and the other held by an American.

Gaining access to American warheads is a two-step process: A country must first sign a general bilateral agreement with the U.S. for mutual co-operation in the nuclear defense field. This requires approval by the U.S. Senate. The second step is a government-to-government agreement on custody and control of the nuclear warheads.

TAKE FIRST STEP

Seven NATO countries took the first step in 1959. These were Canada, Britain, France, The Netherlands, Turkey, Greece and West Germany. Italy followed in 1960 and Belgium in September, 1962.

A U.S. authority says that within a few months after those bilateral agreements went into operation, all of these countries with the exception of Canada and Belgium signed supplementary agreements on custody and control. The agreement with Belgium now is being prepared for detailed negotiations.

The supplementary agreements are classified. They detail the warheads to be stored; guidelines for use of the warheads and specific understanding by the recipient country that the warheads are U.S. property, no nuclear warheads may be stored.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson stated U.S. policy on American nuclear dumps in Europe while addressing the United Nations Security Council last Oct. 21.

The warheads of these missiles remain in the custody of the United States and the decision for their use rests in the hands of the president of the United States in association with the governments involved.

SOME MISSILES OBSOLETE

Gen. Herbert Loper, a Pentagon nuclear authority, told a congressional committee in 1960 that the nuclear stockpiles are essentially "ammunition dumps" under the full control of the U.S. He said these dumps contain tactical or air defense atomic weapons suitable for delivery by the trained nuclear-capable forces of the countries concerned and will be of such types and in such numbers as will enable those forces to carry out their NATO assigned defensive missions in the event of attack.

These supplementary agreements on custody and control also cover the warheads for the 60 Thor intermediate-range ballistic missiles in Britain, the 30 intermediate-range Jupiter ballistic missiles in Italy and the 15 Jupiters in Turkey. The Thors and Jupiters now are being dismantled or outdated.

Two keys are required to fire the Thor, with Britain and the U.S. sharing control over missile operations. The U.S. retains custody over the warheads in Turkey and Italy only one key is required to fire the Jupiter. This key remains with the U.S. Turkish and Italian "man" the Jupiters but only the U.S. has the final control over the warheads and use of the missiles.

U.S. TRAINS TROOPS

This question of degree of control enters into the training of the NATO troops who may be called upon to use American nuclear weapons. An American official says NATO troops assigned to man the Nike-Hercules anti-aircraft weapons in West Germany may get more intensive training by the U.S. than those assigned to man the Jupiters in Turkey and Italy.

American nuclear training is based on "need to know"—to provide only that amount of classified information a soldier requires to carry out his assigned nuclear duties.

For example, a country doesn't have to sign the supplementary custody-and-control agreement to get some American nuclear training for its troops. A certain amount of training on dummy bombs equipped with the electronic circuitry of the real nuclear bomb is provided under the general bilateral agreements—the umbrella pact.

But a country cannot get complete training for its troops on live bomb operations without first signing the supplementary custody-and-control agreement.

OTTAWA REPORT

Historical Time to Come

By PATRICK NICHOLSON

We have been living the headlines of history. Seldom have three months witnessed such an accumulation of events and trends which seem destined for enduring fame. That is how the year 1963 to date is summed up by the wise and experienced Ottawans who enjoy a grandstand view from their behind-the-scenes positions on and around Parliament Hill.

The political allegiance of Canadians, and the purpose of their political parties, are in a state of flux; our very political system and even Confederation itself both stand on foundations which are being shaken by the surging tide of events. But this is not entirely a Canadian phenomenon: Britain, U.S.A., France and Germany have their serious problems too. Other countries are suffering from unemployment, poverty in the midst of plenty, a weakening of the ethos of the people, a lack of respect for law and custom among adolescents, empty churches.

The western world appears to be desperately needing a new polarization, a redefined sense of purpose, even young new leaders to replace the anachronisms from the first World War. This is how older voices speak here today.

This is how experience seeks to comfort those who see a uniquely Canadian problem in this "Election of Mud"—the mud of the Spring break-up underfoot, the mud of the political break-up in speeches so barren of thought, so profuse of trivialities, so unrepresentatively fragile in the animosity which will endure after.

ON GUARD
Early in March, the Woodstock "Sentinel Review" cautioned with its editorial question: "When do the Leaders of the old house facing Canada?"

Time is running out, it warned. "There have been few statements that reflect the deep and fragmentary and constructive thinking that should be demonstrated by those seeking to lead the political destinies of this country through the difficult days ahead."

BIBLE BRIEF
Therefore the Lord himself shall give you a sign: Behold a virgin shall conceive, and bear a son, and shall call his name Immanuel. — Isaiah 7:14.

Son of God becomes Son of Man so sons of men may become sons of God.

Patrick Nicholson

But the ominous events have been in part offset by the welcome and the whimsical. That bogus coin of 30 many recent elections, the lavish promise, the bribing of the elector with his own money, has been happily scented.

And how vividly one remembers, not many years ago, when the courageous single heckler was shushed with angry cries of "Go home your own hall." This year more than one politician has hardly been heard above the roar of the mob in the hall which has hired.

NUMBERS GAME

The misleading size of crowds at election rallies has again been carefully estimated and measured—but the most humorous note was struck by that humorous official who organized the "Instant Crowd" riding on the Conservative campaign train through the lower St. Lawrence region—60 active supporters who jumped out of the carriages and ran along each station to greet the Prime Minister as he descended from his coach.

If those railroad platforms were filled with a borrowed crowd, other crowds were filled by speakers with borrowed platforms.

"The party would increase purchasing power to remedy the present situation in which families are producing more than can be sold by the amount of $2.5 billion a year in Canada," proclaimed one speaker—not a Social Credit but none other than NDP leader Tommy Douglas, who went on to outline 10 methods of increasing the flow of money.

Douglas, it must be noted, suggests that government policies are more important than parties in our politics now. But how many of Canada's 3,200 millionaires, mostly self-made, how many Canadians listed in "The Directory of Directors" or honored by inclusion in "The Canadian Who's Who" are candidates? Fisher's personal still prefer Finance Alley, the college romantics or the court of law to Parliament Hill.

Right To Shut A Door

An election campaign always has many human interest stories and this one is no exception. One such story has prompted the Toronto Globe and Mail to editorially wonder who has the right to shut the door of an apartment house.

But let the Toronto paper tell the story itself:

A building superintendent in York East tried to prevent the New Democratic Party candidate, Mr. Sidney Dunkley, and Mrs. Dunkley from canvassing the tenants in his apartment block. When Mr. and Mrs. Dunkley went right ahead with their canvassing, the superintendent called a policeman, who gave it as his opinion that an apartment building was private property and the superintendent was within his rights in excluding the canvassers. But the superintendent would not lay charges, so Mr. and Mrs. Dunkley continued with their interrupted canvassing.

There is an important principle involved in the incident, and we do not believe that the superintendent or the policeman interpreted it aright. It is true that an apartment building is private property; but who owns the rights to the use of its corridors? The superintendent, the landlord—or the tenants? Does not a man who rents an apartment also rent the access to it? Could any superintendent be certain that all his tenants would object to a political canvasser's knocking on their doors? Has a superintendent—or anybody else for that matter—the right to come between the electorate and the candidates who have presented themselves for election? If so, a superintendent could admit, for example, the Social Credit canvasser, and bar the NDP, the Liberal and the Conservative.

It is probable that many apartment dwellers are relieved when the superintendent defends them against a canvasser. But they give away an important right when they let him do it. He can as easily bar their friends as their enemies, as easily shut the door on opportunity as on importunity.

At election time in particular we believe it would be as well if superintendents left tenants to shut or open their own doors.

North Americans spent nearly $1 billion dollars last year adding space to their homes—proving that a new room is sometimes a better solution than a new house.

Growing Call To Outdoors

A great new era of robust indoor-outdoor living that will contribute more physical fitness and family pleasure through through gardening is predicted by the Canadian Association of Nurserymen.

The indoor-outdoor living concept has grown steadily in the past decade, but it will grow far more rapidly in the next few years, it is said. Total sales of trees and shrubs have hit a new peak every year for the past 15 years and still are increasing. More indoor-outdoor living today is getting more people outdoors at work and play, with more healthful results, it is stated. Expert landscaping and planting will bring an end to the drabness of much present-day housing, in which the land is not conserved with plantings designed for living.

"This new indoor-outdoor living will make home life so rich and attractive that people will spend much more of their incomes on their home properties rather than spending on things that take them away from home, often without any lasting benefits," the nursery group states.

"To maintain housing values, to prevent the ruinous waste of some housing developments which degenerate into slums in 10 or 20 years, housing must be planned so the whole residential area, including the land, will remain beautiful and well-preserved for the longest possible time. When the land is not improved for living, proper planning and planting, home values depreciate at much faster rates. The indoor-outdoor concept conserves the land as well as the house and uses both to live fully and wholesomely.

Patio Becomes a Haven For Entertaining Outdoors

One of the easiest and most economical ways to add both comfort and value to your home is to build a patio.

A patio can be as simple or as complex as you want to make it. By using wood, it's possible for a weekend carpenter, using simple tools, to do the whole job himself.

WOOD FOR HARMONY

Flagstones are frequently used for patio floors, but in some cases, wood will harmonize better with the color and styling of your home. The deck should simply be laid on a framework of naturally durable or preservative-treated 2x4s partly imbedded in the ground.

It's a good idea to put a layer of sand between the ground and the underside of the decking. Before embarking on the construction job, though, plan the patio carefully. Decide first of all what it will be used for—dining, sun-bathing, reading? Patios also serve, of course, as children's play areas and make ideal settings for summer parties.

HELPFUL HINTS ABOUT YOUR HOME

Women Demand Most in House

Women are far more practical than men when it comes to buying a house, says Mrs. Shirley Brunke, chairman of the women's division of the Toronto real estate board.

"That would be a lovely house if we didn't have to live every day," is a comment made by women to Mrs. Brunke.

WOMAN'S CHOICE

The everyday little things that influence a woman's choice of a home are such things as a door directly from the garage into the house for bringing in groceries, an entrance through which service people can go into the basement without passing through other parts of the house, and especially if she has children, a main floor washroom.

Women consider whether the furniture they already have will be appropriate for their new house. "If they have been accustomed to modern design and furniture, they are hesitant about older and colonial styled homes."

Women are also tired of being chauffeured and want to live near libraries, schools, shopping centres.

KITCHEN IMPORTANT

The kitchen is one of the most important factors in a woman's choice of a home, says Mrs. Brunke. "If a woman likes two houses that are about the same price, she will probably choose the one with the nicer kitchen."

Although women are practical, they usually ask for houses that are "different" or "neaky." They also look for charm in a house, says Mrs. Brunke.

"When you walk into some

Care Needed In Choice Of Material

Carpet and rug textures should be chosen with care keeping in mind both function and beauty.

"Scroll" or "sculptured" patterns may also be seen in textured surfaces. Generally, these patterns, together with solid color cut pile, are the most formal-looking carpet types and lend themselves beautifully to elegant furnishings.

Twist textures, loops or shaggy uncut yarns are frequently used with informal furnishings. In many smartly-styled contemporary rooms, a difficult heavy texture is chosen for the carpet to complement smooth furniture finishes and sleek fabrics.

Special texture effects are sometimes achieved by "carving"—a process by which skilled craftsmen using electric hand clippers carve designs into thick plush pile. Another is "random-shearing," where some of the looped yarns are sheared to form a random cut and looped texture.

Some patios have built-in storage areas which are used for such things as gardening tools and outdoor furniture.

If the family is going to be using the patio at night, you'll probably want to install electric outlets and screening. Sun-bathing calls for a patio with a western or eastern exposure.

If very young children will be playing in the area, you may want to make it easily visible from the kitchen. Another point to remember in picking a location is that existing walls and fences can provide part or all of the enclosure needed.

If an additional enclosure is desired, it can be built in a number of ways, since one of the big advantages of wood is that it provides almost infinite design variation. You can cut it to any shape or size, or assemble it into a variety of attractive patterns and obtain additional variety through the use of the natural grain by applying paint or stain.

These factors must also be taken into account. That is, the functional must be considered as well as the aesthetic.

Perhaps, for example, the windward side of the patio deck or pool ought to be sheltered. Such protection can be achieved by incorporating a distinctive solid lumber screen along the windward side. By using a lattice-work design, vertical louvers or a basket-weave design for the screen, protection can be achieved without

NEAR AT HAND

Wood is also easily available and economical. A lumber yard or building materials dealer is probably only a short distance away from where you are right now.

Some very attractive patio enclosures can be built by forming an open lattice of horizontal and vertical 2x4s spaced six to 12 inches apart. Another idea is to build a framework of 2x4s and then panel it on one or both sides.

A patio or sundeck might be free-standing, attached to the house, or detached but connected via a series of protected decking walk-ways. Whichever it is to be, consideration must be given to the existing landscaping, property lines and the direction of the sun's rays and the prevailing winds.

IMPORTANT FACT ABOUT GENUINE LATH and PLASTER

Plaster is Clean and Sanitary

Plaster is often specified by architects for its cleanliness and sanitation as well as its other fine qualities. Its hard, smooth finish is easy to keep hospital clean merely by wiping with an antiseptic-dampened cloth. Unlike some fuzzy-surfaced, jointed substitutes, there are no seams or joints to catch and hold dust, dirt and germs. Open joints in wall and ceiling panels also provide access to hiding places for insects and vermin.

Exclusive Finger-Tip Start Reduces Starting Effort 94%

The 1963 Lawn-Boy is as easy to start as drawing a window blind. Lawn-Boy engineers have designed a new ignition system and geared starter that reduces starting effort an incredible 94%. Finger-Tip start is just one of many ways the new Lawn-Boy gives you your money's worth—here are some others:

Lightweight. Lawn-Boy is easier to push than conventional steel power mowers because Lawn-Boy is made of magnesium, a metal lighter than steel. It is unusually tough and is rust-proof.

Unique Grasscatcher. Lawn-Boy's Chute & Bag Grasscatcher vacuum cleans your lawn as you cut, eliminates raking. It's clog-proof; holds a bushful; detaches and empties in seconds.

2-speed Mowing. Lawn-Boy has 2-speed throttle control. High speed for tough cutting, low speed for quieter, more economical normal cutting.

New "D" Engine. Lawn-Boy's new engine has 3 horsepower (working horsepower, not bench-rated horsepower). It will even cut through wet grass without stalling.

2-Year Warranty. 24 months against defective parts and workmanship.

Let your Lawn-Boy Dealer show you the new Lawn-Boy soon, see for yourself why it's Canada's best-selling power mower. 5 models to choose from.

Teamsters Meet Royalites Sunday

The Kelowna Teamsters soccer club will kick off against the Vernon Royalites at the high school grounds in Vernon on Sunday at 2 p.m. as the second half of the Valley Soccer League gets under way for the run to the wire.

Although the Vernon club has a six point bulge in the league standings, it could very well vanish in a hurry if last Sunday's display against the Kamloops Royals could be used as a measure of their vaunted power and strength.

It would appear at this time that the Kamloops have come up with some very good soccer talent could be the team to reckon with.

The Teamsters will be going with the nucleus of last year's club along with some former veteran players of the 1957-58 league champions.

It would appear that the Teamsters will be strong contenders for the second half honors.

REGISTRATION DEADLINE APRIL 11 FOR RUTLAND LITTLE LEAGUERS

Thursday, April 11, was set as the deadline for registration for the Rutland Little League and Pony League teams, at an executive meeting held last weekend.

President Adam Flegel reports that boys between the ages of seven and 15 inclusive will be taken on the strength of the various teams, from the "farm team" for the youngest ones, up to boys too young for SOKM League.

The management of the Valley Bowling Lanes, Rutland, has agreed to turn over 40 per cent of the proceeds from the bowling lanes Sunday, April 7, to the Little League.

The executive of the league is also arranging to set up to take registrations from any parents wanting to register their boys for baseball, from 2 p.m. on, that afternoon.

The Rutland Red-Caps, the local entry in the Shuswap, Okanagan and Monashee Baseball League and champions of the league last season, held an organizational meeting at the high school on Wednesday afternoon.

Indications are that only about half of last year's team will be out again, several being over age and one or two others away, or not interested this year.

Several promising new players were out to the meeting, however, and a workout has been arranged for Friday afternoon, April 5.

Delegates will also attend the annual meeting of the league in Vernon the same evening.

Graybeards Set The Pace At Masters Tournament

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Some of the graybeards showed the younger Big Three a thing or two in the opening round of the Masters Tournament.

Instead of Arnold Palmer, Gary Player or Jack Nicklaus setting the pace going into today's second round, it was Bo Wininger, 40, and Mike Souchock, 35, on top with 69, three under par. Only one stroke back were such veterans as Sam Snead, 50, Ed Furgol, 46, and Jay Hebert, 40.

Palmer, 33, the defending champion shooting for a fourth Masters title, and Nicklaus, 23, each had a two-over-par 74. Player, 27, the only foreigner ever to win a Masters, shared a 71 with George Bayer.

Amateur Charlie Coe, an oil broker from Oklahoma City and two-time U.S. amateur king, tied at par 72 with Billy Maxwell.

No one else among the 60 starters managed to match the sprawling Augusta National Golf Club course par of 36-38-72. Tricky, gusty winds and hard greens were major factors in keeping the scores high.

Approach shots would hit the baked putting surfaces and bound away.

GREENS LIKE CONCRETE. "The greens were like concrete," commented Snead, who shares with Palmer and Jimmy Demaret the distinction of having won three Masters. At the same time, he added, the greens didn't putt as fast as expected.

Palmer, a top choice in any tournament he enters, commented: "This is the toughest opening day I can remember. But I can't complain. The wind blew for everybody. We all played the same course."

Keon, Bower Brilliant in Leafs 5-0 Win Over Habs

TORONTO (CP)—Ask a National Hockey League player what is needed besides talent and spirit to go places and nine times out of 10 he'll say, "You've got to get the breaks." Toronto Maple Leafs got the breaks, but not just Wednesday night. They came years ago when Johnny Bower and Dave Keon were signed.

Both have paid their way all along, but they played the key roles as the Leafs marched into the Stanley Cup finals by whipping Montreal Canadiens 5-0. Bower was the defensive standout stopping 33 Montreal shots.

Keon scored the first Toronto goal and assisted on the second by Dick Duff. Ron Stewart got a third to give Leafs a 3-0 lead by 10:11 of the first period. Keon scored the only goal of the second period and defenceman Kent Douglas scored his first Stanley Cup goal in the third.

The goal - game Montreal dressing room was a picture of despondency. Coach Toe Blake issued orders that everyone - including club officials - be kept out of the dressing room, but later relented to a lone reporter.

"What these guys need is a lot of prayers and a change in attitude," Blake told him. Did he mean the Canadians had a defeatist attitude in the series?

"Humph. That's not all," Montreal defenseman Terry Harper was in the penalty box for Toronto's first goal at 6:34 of the first period. Keon beat Plants on a low shot that the Toronto centre said Plants "just plain misjudged."

Hub Baun slipped at the push from just inside the blue line and Keon tipped it into the Montreal net to make it 4-0 at 14:31 of the second period. Douglas rushed from the left side and beat Plants at 11:27 of the third period to close the scoring.

Bucks And Seals Will Battle For Southern Division Title

San Francisco Seals and Portland Buckaroos will battle for the Western Hockey League's Southern Division championship in the North, who knows?

San Francisco, swamped 8-2 by Los Angeles Blades in the first game of a best-of-three Southern semi-final, came back with a 5-3 win Wednesday and a 5-4 overtime victory Thursday night.

A two-goal, two-assist effort by right winger Danny Belisle clinched the series at San Francisco.

The Seals and Buckaroos open their best-of-seven division final at Portland Sunday.

At Seattle Thursday, the Seals won the Northern semi-final 1-1 with a 3-2 victory over Edmonton Flyers.

Winner of the deciding game in Seattle Sunday will go against the Canucks in the Northern final, which opens Wednesday in Vancouver.

Belisle's winning effort came on a goal from a scramble in front of the Blade net.

Nick Mirkoski opened the scoring for Seals with 34 seconds gone in the game. Belisle followed four minutes later with a deflection shot.

Blades tied it up on Fleming MacKell's 30-footer and Willie O'Ree's breakaway shot and went ahead when Bob Selinger scored.

Seal's Tom Thurlby and Blades' Gord Haworth traded goals within less than two minutes of the second period. Ed Panagabko got the third period goal which forced the overtime.

OPEN LETTER to ALL VOTERS

I wish to express publicly my complete and unqualified support of John A. Young, the New Democratic Party candidate for Okanagan-Boundary.

Most of my personal supporters and friends know that I am recovering from a serious illness and am unable to campaign actively on Mr. Young's behalf. However, I wish it to be known that John Young was my choice as the New Democratic Party candidate in this election.

I have the fullest confidence and trust in the ability and integrity of John Young. He has had a distinguished teaching career in Canada well, both at home and overseas, as part of Canada's contribution to underdeveloped lands. I know he will carry on in the tradition of J. S. Woodsworth and will try to bring about the kind of program for Canada that I worked towards during my years as your Member of Parliament.

Those of us who were active in the old C.C.F. can see that our ideals and objectives are carried forward by the New Democratic Party. I can assure you that John Young fully shares those ideals and objectives.

I am confident that John Young will be our Member of Parliament after April 8th. He will make a first-rate representative for the people of this riding. Therefore, I very strongly urge all my friends and supporters to place their complete trust in John Young and to give him their full support at the polls.

Yours sincerely,
OWEN L. JONES,
Former M.P. for Okanagan-Boundary.

Wings Dump Hawks 4-2 Howie Young in Trouble

CHICAGO (CP)—The Detroit to a game at their own risk of injury from flying pucks. Neither Abel nor Young was available for comment early in the seven Stanley Cup semi-final day.

With an $11,500 damage suit against it and its fiery defence-man Howie Young.

A few hours before the Red Wings skated onto Chicago Stadium ice and beat the Hawks 4-2 in the fifth game Thursday night, a process server handed general manager-coach Sid Abel and defenceman Young a summons to appear in Chicago central court within 30 days.

The court was filed by Mrs. Louise Belmont of Chicago, who filed into the crowd by a puke during the game by Young in the first game of the series here Tuesday, March 26.

"I just felt good," said the Young casually took a poke at the puck as he skated to the penalty box.

"It is not our problem," an official of the Red Wing organization said early today. "It is the arena's problem."

He pointed out that fans go early in the middle session.

The Hawks tied it with goals by Ken Wharram and Bobby Hull and Ullmann then set up Parker MacDonald who scored the winning goal late in the third period. MacDonald took a golf swing at the bouncing puck to rebound goalkeeper Glenn Hall who made a desperate lunge for it.

That goal was scored while Hawk forward Ab McDonald was crying a five-minute major for crosschecking Detroit defenceman Doug Barkley. The hunk bounced off a Hawk defencender, and MacDonald took a whack at it.

Ullmann put the game out of reach of the Hawks late in the third period.

Busy Sports Schedule Seen At Immaculata High

By LETHIA DEMON

Looking at the sports schedule of the past week and weekend it can be seen that Immaculata had an extremely busy one. While waiting for the start of the next series of house games, the times were filled with something a little different.

The junior boys started the ball rolling Thursday by competing in a cross-country obstacle race. The course was composed of several blocks which were in the vicinity of the school grounds. The competition proved to be rather tough and showed the winners to be from gold house, giving it 10 points. Red house followed with three points and blue with two.

Friday the senior boys tried their luck. They took the same track but had a few added difficulties. To top them off, a good stiff race met the boys and brought them in from their exhaustion drenched and exhausted. Blue came out with an accomplished seven points, and gold close behind with five, while red came last with three points.

Monday the senior girls tried their hand at the race and proved themselves pretty good. This time gold decidedly took the lead with eight points, followed once again by blue with three points and the runner up was red with 2.

TOURNAMENT

For most schools the basketball season ended a week or so ago, but this was not so for Immaculata. Saturday, the seniors Dons and cheerleaders packed up and headed for Kamloops where the Dons participated in a Catholic school tournament. This tournament is still in the trial stages and for this reason there were no trophies awarded, but in any case it proved to be quite a success.

The day seemed to be a successful one for all but the Dons. The first game between the Dons and St. Ann's Academy turned out to be a real thriller at the half time St. Ann's was favored with a score of 26-11, but by the end the Dons had reduced the margin to a mere two points and so lost only by a score of 44-42.

Their next game with the Kamloops Indian Residential School saw the Dons lose by only 19 points, and this in turn followed by another loss for the Dons this time by five points. The Dons may have lost but they certainly put up a good hard fight.

CHEER LEADERS

A vote of thanks must be brought up for all those who willingly helped in providing transportation to Kamloops for the Dons and cheerleaders.

All are extremely grateful to those who so willingly gave up their time for this special event. Thank you.

While on the subject I would just like to take this opportunity to commend the cheerleaders for their fine job. They helped tremendously to keep the boys' spirits up throughout the series of games. The cheerleaders, Helena Olinger, Norma Morrison, Andrea Burbank, Louise Taylor, Carol Fulco and Colleen Erickson are doing a wonderfully good job. Keep up the good work girls!

While on the subject of sports I might add that the next series of house games will start immediately after the completion of the Easter exams. At the moment Mr. Catton and a group of energetic boys are preparing the baseball diamond. They would be very happy if a few more of the hearty baseball fans would come out and join them in finishing the diamond. So, come on students and help them out.

Also on Friday night a group of people composed of both students and parents headed for Vernon. Their purpose was to take in the UN contest finals, in which one of our own Immaculata students, Margaret Casorso, was participating.

Margaret did an extremely fine job and lost by two and a half points. Even so, Margaret did very well and certainly made a fine effort of representing our school and the whole Kelowna area. We only wish she could have won. A very hearty thank you and congratulations goes out to her for all she did.

Wednesday the students were honored with a visit from the Sisters of St. Ann. During the guidance period the girls were addressed by the sister. It proved to be most interesting.

Soviet Bloc "Slows Down"

GENEVA (Reuters) — Soviet-bloc economic expansion has been slowing down for three years and the area had little improvement in living standards in 1965, the United Nations economic commission for Europe has reported.

The commission report blamed bad weather and had planning for some of the bloc's economic ills but said the area's rate of industrial expansion continued to increase.

In the Soviet Union the growth rate of net national income fell to six per cent last year from eight per cent in 1964. A boost of 8 1/2 per cent had been planned.

In eastern Europe as a whole national income growth in 1965 probably was about three per cent against about six per cent in 1964 and 1963, the UN agency continued.

News Travels Fast—This Way!

This is a Canadian Press (CP) teleprinter. From it, and 300 machines like it in 100 Canadian daily newspaper offices, comes news from around the world—from Hong Kong, Katanga, Cape Town, Cape Canaveral. News from across Canada clatters over these machines too.

CP news from everywhere complements the local and district stories gathered by each paper's reporters, correspondents and special writers. Together they provide most of the news content of your newspaper. Twenty-five years ago you couldn't get so much news so fast.

The daily newspaper's editors select, edit and present the news in a simple, understandable fashion. You get the good and the bad, a daily picture of life as it is. In Canada there is no censorship or government control of news. Contrast this with the situation in more than 70% of the countries of the world where governments impose controls on news to serve their own ends. Freedom of the press is freedom of the individual—your right to speak. It is a right whose protection is in the public interest.

WORLD BRIEFS

HIDES SMUGGLERS

MONTEVIDEO (AP) — The hull of an old British passenger liner, half sunk the muddy waters of the River Plate, is being used as a hideout for smugglers, police say. Once known as the Highland Chieftain, the ship was converted into a freighter. It sank mysteriously last June.

FIND ANCIENT SITE

FOGGIA, Italy (AP) — Archaeologists say they have discovered a cemetery dating back to 1,000 BC near this south Italian city. Ceramic pots and bronze articles were found in tombs cut out of solid rock.

DON'T LIKE BREAD

NEW DELHI (AP) — A group of American farmers trying to get Asians to eat bread for breakfast report slow progress. Wayne Gentry of Spokane, Wash., director of the campaign, says the program is not designed to replace rice in the Asian diet but to add wheat's nutritive value.

GETS NEW TITLE

JAKARTA (AP) — Indonesia's President Sukarno, who likes to travel and titles, has acquired another title. Protector of the nation. Among his many others are: Great Leader of the Revolution, Savior of the Nation, and Caretaker of the Message for the Suffering of the People.
